The Arc

NATIONAL CONVENTION

Portland, OR | 2026

WELCOME TO PORTLAND

Dear friends,

On behalf of The Arc Oregon, welcome to Portland! We are proud to host The Arc's 2026 National Convention, and we are so glad you are here.

Oregon has a deep history in the self-advocacy movement. In 1974, self-advocates gathered in Salem for a convention where one participant said, "I want to be known as a person first." That moment gave the People First movement its name. Today, self-advocates continue to lead this work, and many of them started the week with us at the Self-Advocacy Convention of Oregon on November 17.

You will also meet people from chapters of The Arc across our state, from the coast to the high desert. They have been part of this work for decades, and they are excited to welcome you.

When you have a free moment, Portland is ready for you. Powell's City of Books, one of the largest independent bookstores in the world, is a short trip from the hotel. Pioneer Courthouse Square, Lan Su Chinese Garden, and our famous food carts are close by too. MAX light rail and the Portland Streetcar are accessible and easy to use. Two tips: bring a raincoat, and enjoy shopping with no sales tax.

Thank you for coming together with us. We hope you leave Portland inspired, connected, and ready for the work ahead.

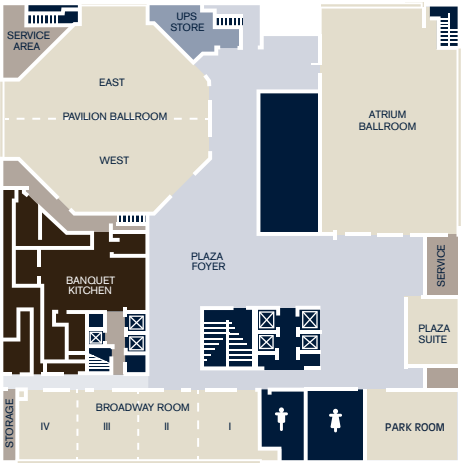

Warmly,

Em Braman
Executive Director, The Arc Oregon

Self-Advocacy, Respect & What Comes Next

GRAND BALLROOM, BALLROOM LEVEL

Dani Bowman, DaniMation

What does self-advocacy look like when the world still underestimates disabled people, misrepresents them, or treats disrespect like entertainment? Dani Bowman will kick off our National Convention and share what it's like to build a career on her own terms. She's the founder of DaniMation and was featured in Seasons 1-4 of Netflix's "Love on the Spectrum U.S." Dani will share how she uses her public platform, why harmful language like the R-word still matters, and how we can all push back when disability is mocked.

National Council of Self-Advocates Symposium: Building Mental Health & Resilience

SKYLINE II, 23RD FLOOR

This symposium was designed by and for people with disabilities. During the session, you will experience an interactive and supportive space to explore what mental health is, learn self-care and mindfulness techniques, and recognize when you or someone else may need support. You will also learn how to build resilience and navigate challenging times.

BREAKOUT SESSIONS

10:45 am – 11:45 am

AI Jumpstart: From Curiosity to Action With AI

BROADWAY III/IV, PLAZA LEVEL

AI & TECH FOR ALL

Molly Little, The Arc of Delaware County, NY; Donald Mullin, The Arc of Rensselaer County; Gregory North, Globe North

AI is everywhere, but where should your chapter begin? This interactive workshop helps leaders of The Arc move from curiosity to confident action. You will learn a simple, fast, low-risk approach to launching AI that creates early wins using existing staff and affordable tools. Hear stories from leaders at The Arc of Delaware County and The Arc of Rensselaer County, two chapters already on an AI journey, and watch AI in action through live demonstrations. You will leave with Globe North's AI JumpStart framework, a practical roadmap for identifying high-value use cases, engaging staff, piloting safely, and scaling what works. Whether you're AI-curious or AI-cautious, you will come away energized, informed, and ready to take the next step.

10:45 am – 11:45 am

Provider Mergers, Acquisitions & Affiliations

PAVILION BALLROOM EAST, PLAZA LEVEL

BUILDING & SUSTAINING RESILIENT ORGANIZATIONS

Erik Geizer, The Arc New York; Mike Vollmer, Terrance Phillips, The Bonadio Group

In this session, presenters will discuss and share experiences related to the increasing frequency of various types of mergers, acquisitions, and affiliations in the IDD sector. They will weigh the pros and cons and critical considerations that come with each venture. They will also cover how to prepare for these endeavors and measure success.

10:45 am – 11:45 am

Impact Findings of Mental Health First Aid in the IDD Community

PAVILION BALLROOM WEST, PLAZA LEVEL

CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Lindsay Dutton, The Arc Oregon; Kerry Mauger, The Arc of the US; Dr. Monica McCall. Nextgen Synergy

Mental health conditions affect up to 40% of people with IDD, double the national average, which underscores a critical need for accessible care. This session will explore a three-year national initiative, funded by the United Health Foundation, that equipped 10 chapters of The Arc to implement a Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) program. By tailoring evidence-based practices to the IDD community, the project educated families and professionals on crisis intervention. Presenters will discuss co-occurring IDD and mental health conditions, access disparities, and inclusive crisis responses. You will gain insights into curriculum enhancements and recommendations for making future mental health services truly responsive to the unique needs of people with IDD.

10:45 am – 11:45 am

Shaping Fair Funding: Special Education Reform in Action

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Heather Eckner, Autism Alliance of Michigan

This workshop will equip disability leaders with practical advocacy tools to advance equitable special education funding, using Michigan's Blueprint as a case study. Through guided activities, facilitated discussions, and scenario-based exercises, participants will map stakeholders, craft compelling messaging, and design actionable strategies to influence policy. You will leave with ready-to-use templates and approaches for mobilizing families, self-advocates, and coalitions in your own community. The session emphasizes amplifying lived experience through bold advocacy, empowering leaders to turn complex policy issues into impactful action while strengthening organizational capacity and leadership.

10:45 am – 11:45 am

Different Voices, Different Needs: Achieving Neuro-Inclusivity

GALLERIA SOUTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

TELLING OUR STORY & FUNDING THE FUTURE

Faith Johnson, The Arc of Tempe/Arizona Achieve

This interactive session explores the diverse realities of neurodivergence and challenges the misconception that there is a single "look" or experience of being neurodivergent. Through the lived experiences of two advocates—a Black, highly masking, and verbal advocate and a white, verbal advocate—you will gain a deeper understanding of how neurodiversity presents across race, communication styles, and levels of support needs.

10:45 am – 11:10 am

What's at Stake at the Supreme Court for People With Disabilities

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Shira Wakschlag, The Arc of the US

Learn about what's at stake for people with disabilities in the most recent Supreme Court term and how you can get involved in protecting disability rights before the Court.

Is Justice Being Served? Holistic Solutions in a Broken System

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Cody Gotchall and John Gotchall, The Arc of Benton County; Leigh Anne McKingsley, The Arc of the US

People with IDD are overrepresented in the U.S. criminal "justice" system, as both victims and incarcerated individuals, highlighting a critical need for professionals in the system to better understand and support people with IDD. In this session, we will highlight Just Policing, a new virtual training from The Arc's National Center on Criminal Justice and Disability, designed to provide police officers with disability awareness training to better serve people with IDD. The Arc of Benton County will also share its CommCard Training Program, Justice Consult and Access Program outcomes, and development of their Disability Response Team as a holistic approach that can work for other communities. Expect real-world strategies, practical tools, lessons learned, and a safe place for people with IDD, advocates, and professionals to discuss this challenging area of advocacy.

2:15 pm – 3:15 pm

Seeing, Hearing, Doing, Living: How Meta's AI Glasses Are Expanding Independence for People With Disabilities

BROADWAY III/IV, PLAZA LEVEL

AI & TECH FOR ALL

Katy Schmid, The Arc US, John Decker, Alta California Regional Center; Jacklyn Doig-Keys, Meta

Wearable AI is moving assistive technology out of specialized devices and into everyday eyewear. This panel will explore how Meta's AI glasses—with cameras, open-ear audio, and a voice-driven assistant—are being used by people who are blind or have low vision, are deaf or hard of hearing, or live with mobility, intellectual, or developmental disabilities.

Panelists will discuss real-world use, from describing a scene or reading a menu to navigating unfamiliar spaces hands-free, and what changes when assistive features arrive in a mainstream product instead of a device that marks the wearer as disabled. The conversation will also address accuracy, privacy, and how disability-led design and smart policy determine who actually benefits.

2:15 pm – 3:15 pm

Shifting Power: Who Leads and Why It Matters

Naveh Eldar, Dustin Smith, Mai Thor, and Rachel Wobschall, The Arc Minnesota

In most social justice movements, leadership by those directly affected is expected. Yet in the disability rights movement, disabled leadership, especially at the executive level, is often the exception rather than the norm. The Arc Minnesota offers a different model: four of its six executive leaders identify as people with lived experience of disability, spanning mental health disability, physical disability, and IDD.

Grounded in the disability justice principle of "Leadership of Those Most Impacted," this session will examine how disabled leadership drives stronger decision making, deeper accountability, and more effective systems change. Explore how to intentionally develop disabled leaders; the structural barriers in nonprofits; and how organizations can move beyond tokenism toward real power sharing. We invite you to ask: if disabled people aren't leading disability justice work, who truly is?

2:15 pm – 3:15 pm

Beyond Translation: Culturally Responsive Support for IDD Families

PAVILION BALLROOM WEST, PLAZA LEVEL

CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Veronica Regueiro, CBEM LLC

Families from diverse backgrounds, including Hispanic families, play a central role in supporting people with IDD, yet many encounter systems of care that don't reflect their values, communication styles, or lived experiences. While language access has improved, translation alone isn't enough to build trust or support meaningful engagement.

This session will provide practical and culturally responsive strategies for supporting people with IDD and their families. Explore how cultural values such as familismo, respeto, and personalismo shape family roles, decision-making, interactions with service providers, and how families understand disability. Through examples and guided discussion, learn to spot barriers like mistrust and disengagement and improve communication, strengthen family partnerships, and integrate cultural and spiritual perspectives into person-centered support.

2:15 pm – 3:15 pm

Interrupting the Pipeline: Toward Autonomy

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Leslie Lipson, Georgia Coalition for Equity in Education; Dana Lloyd, I DECIDE Georgia

Students with disabilities, particularly those at the intersection of race and disability, are often pushed toward two harmful outcomes: criminalization and the loss of autonomy through guardianship. While the school-to-prison pipeline is widely recognized, the school-to-guardianship pipeline is less visible yet just as concerning. Both are shaped by everyday school practices, lowered expectations, and systems that favor control and compliance.

Drawing on legal advocacy, systems work, and real-world examples, presenters will help you spot early warning signs, see how ableism and racism intersect to shape outcomes and why some students are disproportionately impacted, and apply concrete strategies that can be used in IEP meetings, school settings, and community contexts to interrupt these pathways. The goal is to move from reactive responses to intentional strategies that help young people build decision-making skills, maintain rights, and pursue a self-directed life.

2:15 pm – 3:15 pm

Accessibility Isn't Broken, the System Is: 3 Tools for Change

TELLING OUR STORY & FUNDING THE FUTURE

Yvette Pegues, The Arc of the US Board Member

If support doesn't show up or things don't work the way they should, it's not your fault. In this session, you will learn why accessibility keeps breaking and what you can do about it. You will leave with a simple three-question hack to help you speak up, find out who is responsible, and push for real change, not just quick fixes. We'll also talk about how to improve systems or create new ones when they don't work. This interactive, easy-to-follow session will leave you with tools you can use right away to advocate for yourself and your community.

2:15 pm – 2:40 pm

Beyond Social Skills: Helping Your Loved One Build a Social Life

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Ilana Hamburgh and Jeremy Hamburgh, My Best Social Life

Many families want to help their loved one build a social life but haven't been successful or don't know where to start. Social skills groups, therapy, and encouragement may lead to better conversations, but not lasting friendships or relationships. Opportunities arise, but connection doesn't follow. This session explores why and what to do differently. You will learn how social connection happens and how to support your loved one in building friendships and community, including how to identify the right environments, help your loved one meet new people in a structured way, and support growth in confidence and independence. You will leave with practical strategies to help your loved one move from isolation to connection.

2:50 pm - 3:15 pm

Gender Identity and Support Services: Facilitating Connection

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Seneca Clemons, Northwest Center

Have you ever been caught off guard when someone asks what pronouns you use? Are you curious about how to provide inclusive services for the LGBTQ+ community? If so, this breakout session is for you. You will gain a working understanding of terms like nonbinary, gender-fluid, and transgender, plus practical tools for promoting gender-inclusive conversations and community spaces. Whether you are a service provider looking to expand your cultural awareness, a community member wanting to learn more about gender diversity, or someone who simply wants to spend time in a space of solidarity with your neighbors, our doors are open.

Ask Us Anything: Olmstead & Legal Advocacy

BROADWAY III/IV, PLAZA LEVEL

Shira Wakschlag, The Arc of the US

The Arc's Legal Advocacy & General Counsel will share an update on Olmstead and other legal advocacy issues occurring around the country. Then it's your turn. Bring your questions and trade notes on what's working where you live and what's not.

3:30 pm – 4:45 pm

NCE Professional Development Bonus Session: What's Changing in HCBS? Insights From the MAP-It Project

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

Additional fee and pre-registration required. Visit the registration desk for assistance.

Kate Brady and Yoshi Kardell, The Grassroots Project, Human Services Research Institute

Medicaid policy changes affecting home and community-based services (HCBS) can have a major impact on people with disabilities and older adults, yet changes often happen with little visibility. To address this challenge, the Human Services Research Institute, with support from the WITH Foundation, launched MAP-It: A Medicaid Action & Policy Impact Tracker for People with Disabilities. In partnership with George Washington University and the American Association on Health and Disability, MAP-It tracks state-level Medicaid and HCBS policy changes and makes them easier to understand, helping advocates, families, and community organizations engage earlier, share lessons across states, and hold decision-makers accountable. We'll share key findings and trends emerging from the project and discuss what they mean for people with disabilities and HCBS systems nationwide. We also want to hear about your experiences tracking, responding to, and influencing HCBS changes in your state.

AI as Accommodation: Tools That Help Self Advocates Thrive at Work

BROADWAY III/IV, PLAZA LEVEL

AI & TECH FOR ALL

Sydney Badeau, The Arc Wisconsin

AI can help self-advocate professionals work at their full potential. In this session, we will share real examples of how AI supports everyday work tasks like writing emails, organizing schedules, preparing for meetings, and communicating clearly. You will learn how AI can be used as an accommodation to support executive functioning, reduce stress, and increase independence at work. We will share accessible tools that help with planning, problem solving, and staying on track. Designed for all experience levels, this session focuses on building confidence around AI use. You will leave with practical ideas you can use right away, whether for your own work or for the self-advocates you support.

Beyond Group Homes: Replicating Connecticut's IDD Housing Model

Patricia Nadeau and Stephen Morris, Favarh – The Arc of the Farmington Valley

Every family of a person with IDD carries the same question: where will my loved one live and thrive when I'm no longer able to be there? The answer, too often, is a waiting list measured in decades. Connecticut has built a better answer. Learn how chapters of The Arc in Connecticut are collaborating with private housing developers to create integrated, affordable apartment communities where adults with IDD live as tenants among neighbors of all abilities, with support staff on site 24/7. The model leverages Low-Income Housing Tax Credits, existing service dollars, and public-private partnerships, with no capital campaigns, land purchases, or landlording by providers. In five years, more than 30 communities in Connecticut have been completed or are underway. This session will show what it takes to build it.

1:45 pm – 2:45 pm

Making Medicaid Sign-Up and Renewal ("Eligibility") Processes Easier: A Conversation With the Lab

PAVILION BALLROOM WEST, PLAZA LEVEL

Sharon Lewis, Aging & Disability Health Policy Lab

Many states are making changes to Medicaid because of new federal rules. Work requirements for adults in the "expansion" group have drawn much of the attention, but the changes can affect people with disabilities and their families too. Some people have had trouble keeping Medicaid coverage, including people with disabilities who work, "Disabled Adult Children," and people whose savings or income briefly go over the SSI limits.

The Aging & Disability Health Policy Lab is looking at ways to make Medicaid sign-ups and renewals easier for people with disabilities and older adults. In this session, we will explain parts of the eligibility process, talk about common problems and what people are seeing in their own states, and discuss ways to help people keep their Medicaid coverage and avoid losing it by mistake. The Lab will use feedback from this discussion to help propose better policies at the state and federal levels.

1:45 pm – 2:45 pm

Unified Under Pressure: Building Strategic Advocacy Partnerships

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Nora Bent and Maura Sullivan, The Arc of Massachusetts

Since 2025, the landscape for the disability community has shifted significantly. The Arc of Massachusetts has responded by focusing on collective power. This session will examine high-impact advocacy alliances through three examples: the IDD-Autism Alliance, a coalition of disability advocacy organizations; the partnership between The Arc of Massachusetts and Advocates for Autism of Massachusetts; and the Disability Impact Tracker, an online portal documenting the impact of federal changes. Presenters will share frameworks for navigating diverging organizational priorities so partners can move in the same direction.

Unifying The Arc Chapters Statewide to Recruit, Advocate and Fundraise

GALLERIA SOUTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

TELLING OUR STORY & FUNDING THE FUTURE

David Singer, Berkshire County Arc; Noah Leavitt, Northeast Arc; Dawna Gyukeri, Lifeworks

Marketing/Communications/Development Directors from the 18 chapters of The Arc in Massachusetts meet monthly to share strategies and tools, ensuring a collective voice for branding, recruitment, and legislative advocacy.

Last year, the group conducted its largest statewide joint media campaign across print, digital, and social media, directing candidates to one website listing open positions across chapters. The group also shared stories, identified legislative priorities, and pushed out unified messages statewide.

1:45 pm – 2:10 pm

Sibling Support: The Missing Link in Family-Centered Services

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Nikki Donnelly and Kaitlin McNamara, Sibling Leadership Network

Siblings of people with IDD play a vital, lifelong role in family systems, yet they are often underserved in services and supports. This session will introduce the experiences, strengths, and challenges of "sibs" and why they are essential to true family-centered care. Explore how sibling experiences evolve, from caregiving expectations, family dynamics, and future planning to strengths like resilience, empathy, and advocacy. You will also gain practical strategies for providers and families to better include and support siblings through communication, information sharing, and connection to peer supports.

2:20 pm – 2:45 pm

Supporting Siblings of Adults With IDD and Distressing Behaviors

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS - CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Meghan Burke, Vanderbilt University; Emily Holl, Sibling Support Project

Siblings are likely to become caregivers for their brothers and sisters with IDD. However, they may struggle when a sibling has distressing behaviors, such as physical aggression. By understanding the experiences of families of people with IDD and distressing behaviors, we can identify ways to support siblings. This presentation will share findings from two studies that explored the experiences of adults with IDD who have distressing behaviors, as well as the experiences of their siblings and parents. Presenters will also share trauma-based supports for siblings.

A Person-Centered Approach to Emergency Planning for People With IDD

BROADWAY III/IV, PLAZA LEVEL

AI & TECH FOR ALL

Laura Dahill, The Arc Lane County; Tom Keating, Cognitopia; Tobias Rickard, Eugene 4J School District; Ryan Dewitt-Todd

This session introduces a practical, person-centered approach to emergency preparedness, developed through a partnership between The Arc Lane County and Cognitopia. Grounded in the CMIST Framework (Communication, Maintaining Health, Independence, Support & Safety, and Transportation), the model helps people use Cognitopia's Platform for Self-Determination to create personalized emergency preparedness portfolios that reflect their strengths, preferences, communication needs, support networks, and daily routines. After a brief overview of the tools, a project participant with lived experience of IDD will share example portfolios. You will leave with practical ideas and adaptable resources that can help individuals, families, and communities build resilience before, during, and after emergencies.

3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Collaborating to Increase Housing Opportunities in Your Community

PAVILION BALLROOM EAST, PLAZA LEVEL

Pam Blanton and Jamie Martin, Partners4Housing

Across the country, families of adults with IDD face a growing housing crisis as caregivers age and affordable options remain limited. This session will highlight a partnership model in Washington, where chapters of The Arc collaborate with housing experts and state partners to expand housing navigation services. Together, they help families understand benefits like Section 8, find compatible roommates, and develop Shared Living Homes. Learn how cross-sector collaboration can expand impact and equip families with tools to create person-centered housing solutions.

3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Building Community & Capacity Through Education-Centered Outreach

CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SERVICES & SUPPORTS

Katrina Pirkle and Laura Sugg, The Arc Macon

What if disability organizations could reach families years before they need traditional services? In this session, The Arc Macon will share its education-centered outreach model, integrating a Certified Special Education Teacher into disability advocacy and community engagement. Working across schools, families, healthcare, and disability systems helps identify needs earlier, build trusted relationships, and connect families with resources before critical transitions. Learn how this approach evolved and how expanding beyond traditional service delivery can create opportunities for community impact and sustainable growth.

3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Transforming Healthcare Education by Centering Voices of People With IDD

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Tori Glaude and Taylor Woodard, The Arc of the US; Maura Sullivan, The Arc of Massachusetts; Em Braman, The Arc of Oregon

The Arc's Transforming Healthcare Project is building more responsive, inclusive healthcare for people with IDD by training healthcare professionals. This session will share findings from a national initiative that assessed provider training gaps and developed guidelines rooted in cultural humility, accessible communication, sexual violence awareness and education, and disability leadership. Hear practical strategies for healthcare education, how people with IDD are co-leading this work, and what that model means for the future of healthcare access.

3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Crossing State Lines: One Family, One Fight, One Law

Stefanie Hennes, Sibling Caregiver & Advocate

Interstate moves can disrupt essential services for individuals with disabilities. In this session, Stefanie Hennes, primary caregiver for her brother with an intellectual disability and autism, will share her experience navigating a cross-state relocation while fighting to maintain critical supports. Combining lived experience with advocacy insight, she will highlight systemic barriers to accessing disability services after a move to another state and offer tips for anticipating and overcoming those hurdles. Stefanie will also explain how she leveraged her family's story to motivate local legislators to introduce Ralph's Act, which became law this year and will improve service continuity for certain people with disabilities who relocate to Maryland. You will gain practical strategies for navigating interstate transitions and using a personal story to advocate for more accessible, consistent disability systems.

Engaging & Empowering Siblings in Future Planning

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Rebecca Tyers Brown, Achieva

Siblings of people with IDD are often the "next generation" of support, but many feel unprepared, overwhelmed, or excluded from future planning conversations. As parents age and systems grow more complex, siblings are increasingly stepping into advocacy, caregiving, and decision-making roles without clear guidance or support. This session will center the lived experiences of siblings and offer practical, actionable strategies to help families engage siblings early, build confidence, and create sustainable, person-centered plans for the future.

3:35 pm – 4:00 pm

Nourish & Flourish: Tailoring Accessible and Enjoyable Meals

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Alysha Broughton and Tiffany McGill, St. Louis Arc

Nourish & Flourish is a community-based nutrition education initiative led by the St. Louis Arc Nutrition Department through a CDC-funded grant in Missouri. This session will demonstrate the value of registered dietitian nutritionists in advancing preventive health outcomes for adults with IDD. Drawing on local health and food access data, the program addresses disparities including type 2 diabetes, hypertension, and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. Learn how practical, accessible nutrition education can address barriers and serve as a sustainable, replicable model for underserved IDD communities.

The Connected Care Model for Safer IDD Medication Management

BROADWAY III/IV, PLAZA LEVEL

AI & TECH FOR ALL

Erika Salmon and Tiara Slack The Arc of The Ozarks; Naveen Venkatachalam, AL CloudCare/ Sushoo LLC; Michelle Mincks, Guardian Pharmacy Services

Medication errors are still too common for people with IDD, especially when agencies rely on paper medication administration records (MARs) and direct support professionals are often overworked or change frequently. This session will share how The Arc of the Ozarks, Guardian Pharmacy, and AL CloudCare built an integrated medication workflow where AI guides DSPs, flags administration patterns, and answers staff questions around the clock, without requiring staff to have advanced tech skills. Presenters will share the "before and after" story: fewer errors, faster surveys, simpler onboarding, and greater transparency for families and guardians. Leave with a practical roadmap and checklist to start adapting this connected care model.

4:15 pm – 5:15 pm

What Is the Future of Health Delivery in the US?

PAVILION BALLROOM EAST, PLAZA LEVEL

Cody Mullen, The Arc of the US Board Member and Purdue University

The United States has experienced significant and rapid shifts in public health and the healthcare delivery system over the past 18 months, including major changes from the implementation of the One Big Beautiful Bill Act. The session will look at topics including Medicare Advantage, the intersection of federal and state policies, and the Rural Health Transformation Program. The presenter will conclude with an analysis of emerging trends for 2027 and beyond, including legislative and executive actions taken to date, as well as pending executive orders and legislation that may significantly affect the healthcare industry and the individuals it serves.

The Arc and Civitan International: The Partnership Is Working!

PAVILION BALLROOM WEST, PLAZA LEVEL

CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORTS & SERVICES

Tammy Kaskel, The Arc Baltimore; Teresa Wakeman, Civitan International

The strategic partnership is working, and your community can be part of it. The Arc of the US and Civitan International share overlapping missions, visions, and values. Local chapters of The Arc focus on advocacy and services, while Civitan Clubs focus on community service and research. The strategic partnership provides opportunities to learn and work together toward common goals and combined service to people with IDD. More than 50% of members of some Civitan Clubs have IDD, and some clubs are agency-based.

This interactive workshop will discuss the organizations' history, overlaps, and gaps; highlight the partnership that began in 2025; share real examples of successful projects between Civitan Clubs and chapters of The Arc; and include time to collaborate and explore ideas for your chapter and a local Civitan Club. We will help you find the closest Civitan Club, and if there isn't one near you, discuss how to create one.

From Claims to Change: Using State Medicaid Data to Advance Policy

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Rachel Benson and Matt Serres, Oregon Health and Science University

National research shows that people with IDD experience worse health outcomes than those without IDD, yet many states lack usable data to inform policy and advocacy. This session will highlight a collaborative Medicaid claims analysis conducted by the OHSU University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities, the Oregon Council on Developmental Disabilities, and the Center for Health Systems Effectiveness. Presenters will share key findings on health disparities among adult Oregonians with IDD and demonstrate how Medicaid data can be translated into actionable policy and advocacy tools. The session will also offer a practical roadmap for replication in other states

4:15 pm – 5:15 pm

Fundraising Forward: Turning Relationships Into Resources

TELLING OUR STORY & FUNDING THE FUTURE

Michele Petrella, The Arc of the US

Successful fundraising is about more than finding the next grant or making the next ask. It's about building relationships and intentionally moving them forward. This practical session will explore how to build a stronger, more diversified fundraising pipeline by tapping foundations, individual donors, corporate and community partners, and the relationships already in your networks. You will learn simple approaches to relationship mapping, prospect identification, cultivation, and moves management, plus how a customer relationship management (CRM) system can help organize contacts, capture institutional knowledge, track next steps, and turn connections into long-term supporters. Whether your organization has a dedicated development team or fundraising is one of many hats you wear, you'll leave with strategies and tools you can put to work right away.

4:15 pm – 4:40 pm

Using AI to Create Accessible Digital Content

BROADWAY I/II, PLAZA LEVEL

SESSION SHORTS – AI AND TECH FOR ALL

Angie Tesch, The Arc Minnesota

Accessible digital communications are essential, but they can be hard to implement consistently. See how The Arc Minnesota uses AI to improve accessibility while saving time. Learn why accessible digital content matters, what accessibility guidelines look like, and how to apply them. Presenters will share before-and-after examples, demonstrate how AI can support tasks like writing alt text, improve clarity using plain language, and highlight tools that evaluate accessibility for images and text. You will leave with simple, repeatable workflows, tips for using AI responsibly, and free resources you can use right away.

Beyond Warm Bodies: Building a Mission-Aligned Workforce

PAVILION BALLROOM EAST, PLAZA LEVEL

Melanie Bazile, Compass

Staffing remains a persistent challenge in the IDD field. How do we move beyond finding people to finding the right people? This session will share Compass' journey from crisis-driven hiring to building a mission-aligned workforce. Explore how to go from filling shifts to designing systems that prioritize alignment with the people supported, organizational values, and long-term outcomes. Through real examples, presenters will share strategies like values-based interviewing, matching meetings that include clients and families, and intentional onboarding. They will also share how data, like 90-day retention and match quality, drives better decisions. Leave with actionable strategies to build a mission-aligned workforce that stays.

9:00 am – 10:00 am

From Help to Empowerment: Supporting Families of Children With IDD

PAVILION BALLROOM WEST, PLAZA LEVEL

CONNECTED COMMUNITIES: FAMILY CENTERED SUPPORT & SERVICES

Rachel Nemhauser, Disability Advocate & Parent Support Specialist

Families raising children with IDD are often expected to advocate within complex systems, yet many have never been taught how. This session will explore how professionals can help families build the knowledge, skills, and confidence needed to advocate effectively. You will examine how trauma, stress, and systemic barriers affect engagement. You will also learn practical strategies for coaching advocacy, including how to model communication, simplify systems, and build confidence. A key focus is understanding when to step in and when to step back, balancing immediate support with long-term empowerment. You will leave with actionable tools to strengthen family engagement and support more effective, sustainable advocacy.

9:00 am – 10:00 am

Understanding the Latest Threats to Medicaid

GALLERIA NORTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

SPEAKING UP & SPEAKING OUT: LESSONS IN POLICY & ADVOCACY

Kim Musheno and Ellen Taverna, The Arc of the US

The 2025 federal budget reconciliation bill made historic cuts to Medicaid, resulting in a major cost shift to states. This session will explain the latest threats to Medicaid at the federal level, so you can understand the landscape and respond appropriately at the state level.

9:00 am – 10:00 am

Supported Decision Making: Putting the Pieces Together

GALLERIA SOUTH, BALLROOM LEVEL

Em Braman and Felicity Woods, The Arc Oregon

In this workshop-style session, we will break down the components of a supported decision-making (SDM) agreement. You will explore the strategies and supports that work for you or someone you support in each of the component areas within supported decision-making. With hands-on help from presenters, you will identify those supports and strategies and get them ready to be written into a supported decision-making agreement. Examples and templates will be provided. You will leave with a drafted SDM agreement structure you can finalize later.
